5 SU510485 1.0 miles	The path emerges near a barn, meeting a farm track coming from the right; continue straight ahead.
6 SU512482 1.3 miles	When the track bends to the left (there is a metal gate opposite) go on straight ahead to the right of the metal gate, with the hedgerow on your left, gradually uphill. Be sure to stop and look back at the view north before the path starts to run downhill again. On a clear day you should be able to pick out Inkpen Beacon, Beacon Hill and Hannington Mast in the distance.
7 SU514474 1.8 miles	The track meets a quiet metalled road on a bend. Turn to the right, following the road slightly downhill, then uphill and continue on as the road levels out.
8 SU505470 2.5 miles	There is a distinct right-hand bend in the road; continue further along the road for a short distance.
9 SU504471 2.6 miles	Turn left onto a footpath, which is to the left of a wide barred gate.
10 SU499469 2.9 miles	The track bears left at Pot Bottom Cottage. Continue on the track, and turn right on the corner by Laverstoke Grange Farm (built 1901 and 2001).

13 SU489466 3.7 miles	Shortly, at the top of the rise, there is a fork in the track; keep to the left-hand fork and not the right (which passes through a gap into another field). You may see spoil heaps at this point, a by-product of papermaking at Overton Mill. Continue to follow this track, with trees and hedgerow on your right, along the top edge of several fields which slope away to the left. Good views to the south.
14 SU482462 4.2 miles	The track reaches a quiet road (Micheldever Road); turn right and continue along road, but listen for approaching vehicles, as the few cars that use it may travel at speed.
15 SU474469 4.9 miles	Pass the Southfield Farm buildings on the right, then after around 25 metres turn onto a track to the left.
16 SU473469 5.0 miles	Follow this track between hedgerows across the top of two fields. When the track then curves to the left (SU471467), take the footpath to the right, which first runs very gently uphill and then gently downhill. The path emerges by houses.

(19)	4.2	SU451453	The track passes under the exposed girders of a railway bridge; immediately take footpath sloping up to the left (fingerpost in memory of Reg Cox, Andover Rambler). Continue on this path, following the line of the old DNSR railway to the left.
(20)	4.4	SU452456	The path meets a farm track, turn right onto this, then turn immediately left to rejoin the footpath, skirting around a farm building. At the top corner of this field there is a marked gap through the hedge, slightly to the right of the corner.
(21)	4.6	SU454459	The path continues, with a hedge to the left, taking a sharp left turn after a short distance to continue following the hedge line. (There is a fingerpost in the hedgerow on this corner.)
(22)	4.9	SU453462	The path cuts through a copse and emerges through a kissing gate at a fork in a lane. Cross the lane and take the path up the embankment on the opposite side and through another kissing gate. Follow path to the left and around the edge of the field.
(23)	5.4	SU454468	Path exits onto a lane at Tufton. Turn right and then left after 50 yards to take the footbridge across the River Test. Take some time to stop on the bridge and admire the stunning river views and the Victorian railway arch spanning the river. Turn to the left and under the viaduct (the old DNSR line ran above).
(24)	5.5	SU454469	Follow path to the right, along the edge of some woodland and over a very small footbridge into the next field; continue straight ahead through three kissing gates until reaching a stile and footpath into the field on the right.
(25)	5.7	SU455473	Cross stile and walk gently uphill, staying on left hand side of field. The path levels and then goes gently downhill. Cross two further stiles.
(26)	6.0	SU457477	The path comes out alongside the B3400. Turn to the right and under the A34 flyover. Cross the road, continue along Church Street past the cemetery and then turn immediately left, (before passing under the railway bridge) and head towards the new houses, walking alongside the old railway embankment. Pass between 3 bollards, and soon turn right to pass through 3 more, following a tarmac path to the right of No.6. This soon changes to become a gravel path, following the route of the old railway. The path meets a road; cross and continue ahead, passing the back of two houses; the second one is the old station house, now a private home that retains many original architectural features and station fixtures. Turn right to follow a path which goes through the railway foot tunnel and emerges at a gate. Pass through the gate and cross the road into Fairclose.
(27)	6.5	SU462480	At the far end of Fairclose, turn to the left and arrive in the centre of Whitchurch.

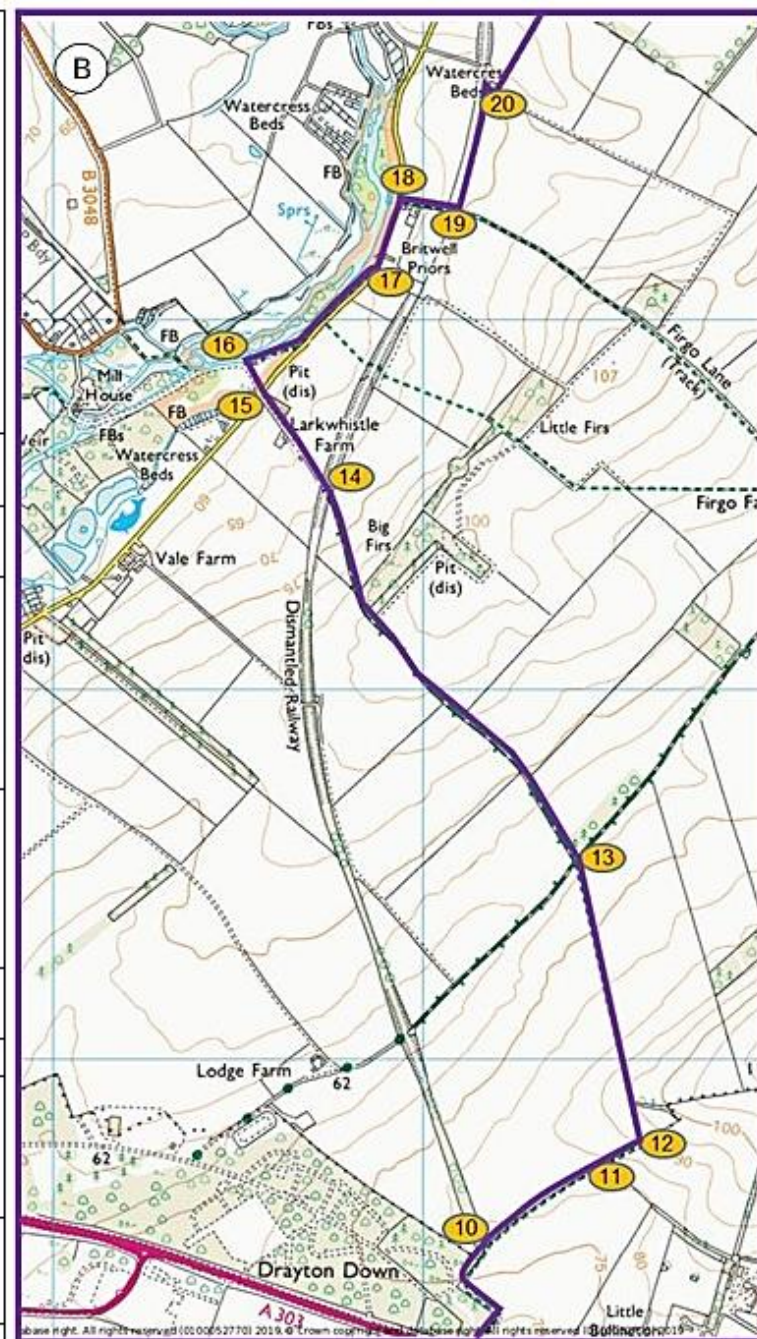

Walk description is as accurate as possible, but Whitchurch Walkers are Welcome does not accept responsibility for any errors.

⑨	1.4	SU454421	About 10 yards before the junction with the A303, turn left onto a gravelled track. Sometimes a gate is closed across this track; if so, use the pedestrian gate to walk around it. Continue on this track, which bends to the right and passes under the A303 via a double bridge, an example of architectural styles colliding; the Victorian red brick arch (from the old DNSR line) abutting a typical 20 th century concrete road bridge. The track meets a field – turn immediately to the left (you may spot an overgrown disused gate) and follow the footpath, which runs along the edge of the field, at first parallel to the A303 and then skirting Drayton Copse on the left. These woods mark the edge of a base where American troops from the 70th Tank Battalion prepared for D-Day. The tank training roads still exist. Most of the 70th's tanks succeeded in making it onto Utah Beach. Continue towards a Vale Farm Fishing sign.
⑩	1.9	SU452425	Pass the sign and continue along the edge of the field. At the far corner of the first field, continue straight ahead into the next field.
⑪	2.1	SU455427	Continue gently uphill on the left hand side of this field, looking closely for a break in the hedge.
⑫	2.2	SU456428	After 150 yards, turn left through the break in the hedge. Continue ahead on this path, which runs on the right hand side of a field and gently up to a ridge. Bronze Age, Iron Age and Roman remains have been discovered on these downs. Stop to admire the open view here, with Danebury Ring Iron Age Hillfort on the horizon. The old railway line is marked by the hedgerow on the far side of the field, as you stand facing away from the path.
⑬	2.7	SU454435	At the far right hand corner of this field, the path passes through a gap in the hedge and copse. There is a marked post on the other side. Continue straight on, on a rising wide track. The old railway embankment can be seen through the hedgerow swinging in a north easterly arc towards the footpath.
⑭	3.4	SU447445	The track passes under a Victorian slanted red brick railway bridge (old DNSR line). Later, pass a telegraph pole marked Larkwhistle Farm.
⑮	3.6	SU446448	At the cross roads, cross and walk straight ahead.
⑯	3.7	SU445449	After a short distance, where the lane bends to the left, take the footpath on the right (finger post) so as to cut the corner and continue alongside the river. To take in the open river views at The Cleeves, before turning right, continue ahead for a few yards, then retrace your steps.
⑰	3.9	SU449451	Join lane opposite a large house called Britwell Priors; turn to the left and continue. This is an interesting Elizabethan house that was moved in the 1920s from its original location at Britwell Salome, Oxfordshire to its new location near The Cleeves.

Bullington to Whitchurch (6.5 miles)

No 86 bus in Winchester direction - ask for Lower Bullington Turn bus stop
 – this is the 2nd stop after the bus has turned off the A34 (7 minutes from centre of Whitchurch)

Point	Miles	Grid Ref	Directions
①	0.0	SU463412	Alight at Lower Bullington Turn bus stop (the 1st stop after the bus has left the A34), which is by a junction signposted to Norton. Cross the road and turn back towards a road turning on the left, signposted to Bullington and Barton Stacey. Turn left into this road, which soon passes under the A34 flyover.
⑥	0.6	SU456413	Cross the stile and bear to the right, crossing the field diagonally and towards the left side of a church and timber fronted house. DOGS on LEADS – HORSES in FIELD. The path meets another stile.
⑦	0.7	SU455412	Cross stile and exit onto Bullington Lane. Turn to the right, walking past the Grade II* listed Norman Church of St Michael & All Angels.
⑧	0.9	SU453412	Ignore the first turning to the right (a private drive) and walk on to where a small lane turns off the road to the right, opposite a white house. Turn into this lane, which crosses the river after 50 yards. Continue along lane, ignoring a turn to right (at SU453416). This lane continues directly towards the A303. Be alert for oncoming traffic and STOP before you reach the A303, which is a very busy road.

This is a 5 mile walk which connects Overton and Whitchurch via The Harrow Way.
In 2017, Whitchurch Walkers are Welcome volunteers worked with Hampshire Countryside Rangers to remove 5 stiles and replace them with kissing gates, making the route stile-free and open to all.

The route follows a disused drove road north out of Overton to join the Harrow Way.

The Harrow Way, or the 'Old Way' in Old English, is an ancient trackway thought to be at least 5,000 years old, dating back to the Stone Age. It may have been used for tin trading, and from the early Middle Ages became an important and busy drove road, linking Dover in Kent to Devon. The Eastern part of the Harrow Way ran from Dover to Farnham in Surrey. Pilgrims used this route from Canterbury, and then diverted at Farnham onto the Pilgrims Way to Winchester. The Western section of the Harrow Way continued westwards through Hampshire via Basingstoke, Andover and the famous Weyhill Fair, on to Salisbury Plain and Stonehenge in Wiltshire, through Dorset and as far as Seaton on the Devon coast.

Drove roads were needed to drive cattle and sheep to markets and to new pastures; they often followed ancient trackways. They were at least 40 feet wide and were often hedged to prevent the animals infiltrating local flocks and herds, and from straying into cultivated crops. The routes were way-marked with evergreen trees which were easily visible at all times of year. Tree-lined ponds situated along the route provided for the watering of animals.

There's also a connection to 'Watership Down' written by Richard Adams, a long-time resident of Whitchurch. He based many of the book's locations on local places; at Waypoint 7 on this walk, where The Harrow Way crosses Jack Mills Lane, he sited Efrafa, a warren run with militaristic precision and savagery by General Woundwort, arch-enemy of Hazel and Co.
